

Supplemental Materials for:

“Pluralistic ignorance and outgroup perception accuracy
during the 2024 Presidential Election: A MUSES Analysis”

Evaluated Social Groups (In order of presentation)

*Abbreviated on Poster

Athesits

Muslims

Christians

Jews

*Police Officers

*Women who do not intend to have children

*Ukrainians

*Russians

*Palestinians

*Israelis

Immigrants

*Immigrants from Mexico

*Immigrants from Haiti

*Straight people

*Gay/lesbian people

*Transgender people

*Non-binary people

*Supporters of Donald Trump

*Supporters of Kamala Harris

*Donald Trump

*Kamala Harris

References

- Bursztyn, L., & Yang, D. Y. (2022). Misperceptions about others. Annual Review of Economics, 14(1), 425-452.
- Todorov, A., & Mandisodza, A. N. (2004). Public opinion on foreign policy: The multilateral public that perceives itself as unilateral. Public Opinion Quarterly, 68(3), 323-348.
- Van Boven, L. (2000). Pluralistic ignorance and political correctness: The case of affirmative action. Political Psychology, 21(2), 267-276.